

Assignment 1 – 7005ICT Programming Principles 2

ER Diagram:

My web application is a Malayalam movie review application where users can read existing reviews to help decide whether to watch a movie. They can also find the best movies by reading reviews and ratings, as well as create new reviews for movies.

In terms of the coding process, I started by developing the application with a home screen and navbar. Then, I created the necessary individual pages and connected them in the required manner to meet the project's requirements. During coding, I used AI tools for error handling and to correct any errors that I couldn't solve on my own.

For the next assignment, I definitely plan to start early and complete the assignment with confidence.
